

Support The Cause

New Build Locomotive Scotland began with a simple realisation, among all new builds currently being undertaken across the preservation scene, none of them represent the majesty that was Scottish built steam locomotives.

With this in mind, NBLs aim to fill this gap in the preservation world by building a new locomotive in Scotland, by Scotland and for Scotland. The project is to be a new build of one of the currently non-existent Ben Class locomotives, namely Ben Alder (Dubs & Co. 3685 built 1898). Earmarked for preservation from 1953 but unfortunately met the cutters torch in 1967, after being "hidden" in numerous locations, this forlorn story is known to many.

With no Ben Class locomotives in preservation there is a fine opportunity to fill a gap, righting a wrong and provide the preservation scene with a locomotive which would fit the bill in many aspects.

You can support the project by subscribing to NBLs for an annual fee, for which you will receive exclusive benefits. If you wish to support this cause then please complete the form overleaf and hand it to a member of the NBLs team with cash or cheque payable to New Build Locomotive Scotland.
